Welcome

Whether you saunter or power walk your way along our 4 miles of trails, you will come away lighter in spirit. The park's forest provides for a wide variety of vegetation and landscape. On the west side, wet marsh prevails with hundreds of cattails and brightly colored water flowers in season. As you move eastward, the land rises and turns into rolling slopes with much different vegetation. Tamarack, white pine and jack pine thrive on the East; maple, ash, bitternut, spruce, and oak thrive on the west. We even have a lone cottonwood that according to a local DNR representative, has no business being here. Benches, the small squares on the map, abound for those who came with the intention of an enjoyable lunch, writing letters, reading a book, or spending time in contemplation. You may even encounter our resident deer family. They particularly enjoy the area around Owl Bridge and the Gold Star.
